The LSU Center for Computation & Technology and School of Music will host the 2015 International Conference on New Interfaces for Musical Expression, or NIME, May 31-June 3. This will be the 14th year that researchers and musicians from all over the world come together to share state-of-the-art musical interfaces and interactions for musical performance. Each year the conference is hosted by research groups dedicated to interface design, human-computer interaction and computer music. See www.nime.org for additional information.
